EXPERTS

Ten of the Thirteen for Dreyfus.

The Prisoner Seeks Relief in Tears.

Preponderance of Evidence Today Favors Dreyfus.

By Associated Press to the Journal.

RENNES, Sept. 1.—Immediately after the opening of the Dreyfus court martial this morning the clerk of the court read the report regarding M. Du Brul, the partisan friend of M. Debaurepaire, who testified August 29 to the effect that Dreyfus met a German attaché at the house of a mutual friend the cross examination reflecting severely on his reputation. The report was to the effect that the character of the witness was most respectable.

A groom named Germain then deposed to seeing Dreyfus at the German army maneuvers in Alsace. The general effect of his testimony was rather unfavorable to the prisoner.

The next two witnesses, however, gave strong testimony in favor of Dreyfus, and sadly knocked Germain out. His employer, a man named Kuhlman, declared that all Germain had said was untrue, and Major Infreville declared he never knew Dreyfus, so Germain's allusions to him were baseless.

Captain Lemonier, deposed that the prisoner told him he was well acquainted with a certain German position, because he had followed the Alsatian maneuvers. Dreyfus replied that Lemonier must have mixed up his remarks. The prisoner was acquainted with that part of Alsace because he was present at the maneuvers of the German army there.

Lieut. Berrenheim testified that he lent Esterhazy documents dealing with the artillery, and was unable to get them back. Artillery Lieut. Brugere testified that it was easy for an outsider to obtain the particulars about guns. He himself had lent a firing manual to infantry officers.

JOHANNESBURG, Sept. 1.—The Standard and Diggers News, of Johannesburg, describes the Boer women as warlike. They are forming rifle clubs in many districts and petitioning the Transvaal government asking for the franchise to the Uitlanders, on the basis of a five-year residence.

Dreyfus in Tears.

RENNES, Sept. 1.—Dreyfus had the most trying day he has yet gone through. The strain proved to be great for him, and for the second time in the course of the trial he gave way to his feelings and sought relief in tears. The generals have branded him as a traitor before the court, their subordinates have pointed the finger of scorn at him. But he only once flinched—when the official report of his treatment on Devil's Island was read before him and the pictures of his sufferings, mental and physical, was thrown vividly on the screen of his memory. Then he hid his features and wept.

He passed through another such crisis yesterday when, after Captain Lebrun-Renaud and witness after witness had brought before him that cold January morning which ushered in the scene of his degradation, Major Forsennet, a man of heart, told in simple words and unaffected manner the story of Dreyfus' struggle with the maddening temptation to take his life and the intervention of his wife, as an angel, pointing out the road of duty. Then again the prisoner's breast heaved with emotion and tear drops trickled down his cheeks.

He rose, and after a forced effort to remain calm as he spoke a few words concerning his denial to Colonel Paty de Clam that he wrote the bordereau, he turned to Forsennet, with a look of thanks for his consolation so needed. Dreyfus then uttered these words of heartfelt gratitude to his wife for the courage with which she inspired him: "I am alive today."

The prisoner could articulate no more, but sat down abruptly to conceal his distress.

TEN TO THREE.

Preponderance of Expert Evidence Was in Favor of the Prisoner.

By Associated Press to the Journal. NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—The Tribune's Rennes correspondent, summing up the Dreyfus case, says: "The preponderance of the testimony of the handwriting experts, which closed with the evidence of M. Giry, member of the institute, is decidedly favorable for Dreyfus, and this was clearly the impression made upon the court. Of 13 experts, only three—Bertillon and his understudy, Captain Valerio and Teyssier—affirm that Dreyfus is the author of the bordereau. Four experts—Giry, Molinier, Meyer and Charvay—are absolutely positive that the bordereau is in Esterhazy's handwriting."

Of all the expert testimony that of M. Molinier, professor in the school of manuscripts, produced the greatest effect on the court. His testimony, besides his conclusive technical demonstrations, Molinier said the involved phraseology and the use of unnecessary words, which are so apparent in the bordereau make it highly improbable that it was done by a tedious process. Measurements from a "key-word" were also ridiculous. Suppose that Dreyfus was the author of the bordereau: he would have wasted the time in committing the hand writing of Esterhazy, who was known to be in correspondence with Schwarzkoppem.

Molinier's testimony was so convincing that General Mercier, who, by a strange indulgence of the court, is allowed together with General Roget, to act practically in the capacity of counsel for the prosecution, sprang to his feet and succeeded in making the clerk read the evidence of Grenier, who testified before the court of cassation that Esterhazy had changed his handwriting in 1897, a piece of evidence which points all the more strongly to Esterhazy being the real author of the bordereau and forecasts a change in the tactics of the prosecution. Since yesterday, there is a distinctly new departure in Colonel Jonaste's method of conducting the trial. He now directs the evidence more strictly before the court, namely, whether or not Dreyfus wrote the bordereau. The hearsay evidence of Picot, a member of the institute who said the Austrian attaché, Colonel Esterhazy was the real traitor, fell flat on the judges, although the court listened eagerly to General Roget, who, in his role of junior counsel for the prosecution, made a spicy little speech in behalf of French officers as against foreign attaches.

The testimony of General Deloye, director of French artillery, was favorable to Dreyfus, showing that as an artillery officer, Dreyfus would not have made the technical blunder of referring to the hydro-pneumatic brake of the field gun "128-short," as "hydraulic brake," and the person who wrote the bordereau did. General Deloye also showed that the opportunities to secure information enumerated in the bordereau were common to many officers in the line, as well as the staff, besides Dreyfus.

Commissioner's Report.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—The annual report of Hon. H. Clay Evans, commissioner of pensions, shows that during the year there were added to the pension roll 40,229 names and 43,196 were dropped, 34,345 of these by reason of death. There was expended for pensions $138,355,092.

The annual value of the entire pension roll amounts to $131,617,961, being $449,496 more than it was, due to the higher average annual value of pensions. The roll is made up of 753,451 surviving soldiers, 297,416 widows and dependent relatives, and 673 nurses. The total number of original applications filed during the year, including those on accounts of the war with Spain, was 48,765.

He recommends an independent Republican government with a president, vice president and congress.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Despatch to the World from Hong Kong says: Private advices from Manila state that General Wheeler in conversation last Monday he had repeatedly applied to Otis for something to do. WAR CLOUDS ipated.

In the Transvaal are Not Being Dis-

CAPE TOWN, Sept. 1.—Reports from various outlying districts of the Transvaal describe them as being in a state of excitement. The Burghers it is said are watching developments keenly but the majority of them hope for a peaceful settlement of the crisis.

PRETORIA, Sept. 1.—President Kruger, today announced to the volksraad that he received a telegram from the governor of Mozambique saying the detained ammunition would be forwarded immediately.

The entire correspondence between the imperial and Transvaal governments was read in open session and President Kruger asked the raad to meet secretly tonight for the purpose of considering a reply. President Kruger also asserted that in the convention in 1851, the suzerainty of Great Britain was distinctly stated. But, he added there was no mention of it in the convention of 1884. He denied the government had excluded the British from political rights.

A member of the executive council explained that when the Transvaal's reply to the joint commission's dispatch was ready, the state attorney interviewed the British diplomatic agent, Conyngham Green, in consequence of which the last reply framed held that Mr. Chamberlain's dispatch was no reply to theirs. Mr. Green then cabled to Great Britain certain suggestions to which Great Britain replied that if the transvaal made similar proposals they would be considered on their merits. This was the reply containing the alternative proposals of yesterday.

The Transvaal's note to Great Britain, offering the five-year franchise and the other concessions, was strongly worded and explained that the concessions were made with a sincere desire fully to settle all differences, to put an end to the strained relations and to divert a disastrous war, therefore a prompt answer was requested.

The note of Conyngham Green, in reply, was conciliatory and tantamount to an acceptance of the five-year offer. It agreed to waive the suggested commission of inquiry provided a representative to be appointed by Sir Alfred Milner should be given facilities in Pretoria to make an investigation of the franchise question and provided the report of such representative should prove satisfactory. Otherwise the Transvaal government was requested to await further suggestions from the imperial government before submitting the new proposals to the volksraad. Mr. Green's note, in conclusion, suggested a further conference at Cape Town.

AMSTERDAM, [Sept. 1.—In a collision last night between two river steamers on the North Sea Canal one vessel sank and nine persons were drowned.

Two Hundred Men and Little Gold Arrive.

SEATTLE, Sept. 1.—Steamer Laurels arrived this morning from St. Michaels with 200 passengers from Dawson and Cape Nome and a small amount of gold dust. S. R. Colvin says the men mining on the beach are taking out from $4 to $50 to the man.

MAY DISMISS MINISTRY

Fears of a Rebellion in Cape Colony in That Event.

LONDON, Sept. 1.—The Daily Chronicle publishes the following dispatch from Cape Town: "It is rumored here that Sir Alfred Milner, governor of the Cape Colony, contemplates dismissing the Schreiner ministry under his special powers. If he does, it is feared that a rebellion will break out, as the Dutch would believe that Great Britain is again forcing Cecil Rhodes to the front. The rumors caused an unusual episode in the house of assembly here today. Cecil Rhodes asked for a speedy passage of the estimates, in order to enable him to go to Rhodesia. The other leaders of the opposition supported the demand, but the ministerials, fearing that the completion of the estimates would be the signal for their downfall, declined to be forced, and after the passage of a few votes, the house proceeded to other business."

NOT ALL IMPERIALISTS.

Murat Halstead Calls Hard Names at Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 1.—Editor Murat Halstead lectured last night by invitation of the Economic Club, which meets in the Vine-street Congregational church. The audience was miscellaneous, in addition to the members of the club, which is largely imperialistic. Mr. Halstead's subject was "The Philippines." After the lecture, according to the rules of the club, Mr. Halstead was pined with questions. One of the questioners, with decidedly sympathetic notions for Aguinaldo, after his question had been answered, added the remark: "I hope Otis will be kept in and will keep on blundering until he and the whole army are driven into the sea or captured."

Mr. Halstead said: "A man with those sentiments is a traitor to his country."

Several men jumped up and remarked: "Two-thirds of this audience think that way."

Mr. Halstead replied: "Whoever thinks that way is a traitor."

Then there was a rush down the hall with raised fists, toward Mr. Halstead, but a great number of men stepped in between Mr. Halstead and those who were rushing at him. Through the noise and uproar was disclosed the fact that the audience was composed of men on both sides of the question. Mr. Halstead was quietly led out of the church by a side door and taken home. No blows were struck, but chairs and seats were upset and there were loud threats and a great uproar.
